

Good Food Policy Conference in partnership with Chicago Food Policy Advisory Council and advisory committee of community stakeholders

Good Food Policy Conference Request for Proposals

Friday, March 20th, 2015

UIC Forum – Chicago, IL

APPLICATIONS DUE: December 17, 2014

The Good Food Policy Conference will bring together public and private stakeholders to discuss food policy issues affecting the production, distribution, and access to local food.

Led by a community based advisory committee, the Good Food Policy Conference Committee seeks applications from organizations, individuals, and governments to present at the event. Sessions should address a policy issue affecting local food. Highest priority will be given to submissions that propose substantive policy changes that will have measurable impacts on-the-ground, as well as those that showcase a range of approaches or practices that are applicable to regional food communities.

Applications are due December 17, 2014, and applicants will be informed by January 16, 2015. Additional information will be requested at that time. If deemed appropriate by the advisory committee, we would appreciate your willingness to collaborate with other groups that may have submitted similar proposals.

Advisory Board Members:

Erika Allen, Growing Power

William Burdett, Advocates for Urban Agriculture

Conor Butkus, FamilyFarmed.org

Lauralyn Clawson, Growing Power

Rodger Cooley, IL Institute of Technology

Naomi Davis, Blacks in Green

Wes King, IL Stewardship Alliance

Jess Lynch, Illinois Public Health Institute

Felipe Tendick Matesanz, Restaurant Opportunities Centers United

Alex Poltorak, Urban Canopy

Veronica Porter

Harry Rhodes, Growing Home

The Good Food Policy Conference Committee seeks applications that address the following policy areas:

- Local food and economic development
 - a. How can food focused public private partnerships increase the economic health of communities?
 - b. What local policy changes are needed to promote urban agriculture?
- Land access for agriculture
 - a. How can land banks play a role in providing equitable access to land?
 - b. What are strategies used to increase the acreage of local food?
- Issues in federal food policy that affect local food
 - a. What affect does federal policy have on local efforts?
 - b. Why should we be concerned about federal policy?
- Local initiatives – local government policy
 - a. What are local governments doing to support local food?
 - b. How can local governments support local food within current policies?
 - c. What are ways local government can ensure fair labor practices in local food?
- The regional food system
 - a. What is the potential for growth of local food in the region?
 - b. What is happening in the region/what's working?
 - c. What have other regions done to encourage food systems planning?
- Social justice and local food
 - a. How can human rights best practices be applied to local, regional, and federal food policy?
 - b. How can policy foster an equitable system of shared prosperity in local food?
 - c. What economic/legal structures support a just food system? How can these structures be applied to local food policy?

Proposal Application:

Title of session – (please be creative and descriptive):

List of presenters (please include name, organization/affiliation if applicable, and email address):

Short description of the workshop to be used online (200 character limit):

1) Describe the food policy area your session will address (1000 character limit):

2) Describe how your session will provide insight and possible action on your policy area (1000 character limit):

3) Describe how your project increases the product, distribution, and access to local, sustainably produced food (1000 character limit):

Submit application to Conor Butkus at foodpolicy@familyfarmed.org